Our Farmers' Wives. Next to being a minister's wife, I should dread being the wife of a farmer. Sometimes, indeed, the terms are synonymons. Raising children and chickens, ad infinitum; making butter, cheese, bread, and the omnipresent pie; cutting, making and mending the clothes for a whole household, not to speak of doing their washing and ironing; taking care of the pigs and the vegetable garden; pickling myriads of encumbers; drying fruits and herbs; putting all the twins through the measles, whooping-cough, mumps, scarlet fever and chicken-pox; besides keeping a perpetual river of hot grease on the kitchen table, in which is to float potatoes, carrots, onions and turnips for the ravenous maws of the "farmhands." No wonder that the poor things look

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR PRESERVING. -Perhaps at the present season a few general hints on preserving, for the use of the young housewife, may not be unacceptable. Several of the directions may appear needless; but there may be some nexperienced persons to whom they may be beneficial.

1. Let everything used for the purpose be clean and dry; especially bottles. 2. Never place a preserving-pan flat on the fire, as this will render the preserve liable to burn to, as it is called; that is to say, to adhere closely to the metal, and then to burn; it should always rest on a trevet, or on the lower bar of the kitchen

3. After the sugar is added to them, stir the preserves gently at first, and more quickly towards the end, without quitting them until they are done; this orecaution will prevent their being spoiled. 4. All preserves should be perfectly clear from the scum as it rises.

5. Fruit which is to be preserved in syrup must first be blanched or boiled gently, until it is sufficiently softened to bsorb the sugar; and a thin syrup must be poured on it at first, or it will shrivel instead of remaining plump ar I becoming clear. Thus, if its weight of sugar is to be allowed, and boiled to a syrup. with a pint of water to the pound, only half the weight must be taken at first, harassed, jaded and toil-worn long before and this must not be boiled with the water more than fifteen or twenty minutes at the commencement of the process. A part of the remaining sugar must be added every time the syrup is reboiled, un less it should be otherwise directed in the

the Haverhill Gazette:

The cost of a hired woman or girl in the house during the last seven years, has been on an average at least $1 50 a week, and her board $1 50 more, and the extra cost of the fuel and the cooking, between its being used by a prudent wife or a servant who has no object or interest in say ing, will make at least $50 more, making the extra expense of keeping a maid or doing one's own work, $200 a year, or in twenty years, which is a kind of average time for families to secure independence or break down, amounts to $4000, to be made or lost by just this one item of domestic economy. But the writer, and several of his neighbors, have now kept house for fifty years, in which time the sum would amount to $10,000. a sum which would have swept off every vestige of property any of us could ever pretend to possess, and left us poor and destitute, or dead long since with disappointment, hardship and mortification. A great deal is said at the present day about education, and thousands of dollars of public money is expended to induce parents to spend their lives and estates to keep their daughters in the parlor or at school, studying Latin, and French, and algebra till they are eighteen or twenof them must become the wives of farmers and mechanics of moderate means, or remain forever single. No man but a millionaire, or great capitalist, can affordto marry a wife who has been educated to think herself a learned lady, to be always dressed for the parlor, and above the cares and labors of the kitchen; and every man of sense who expects to work with heads or bands for a living, will select the young lady for a help-mate who can cook and make butter and cheese and clothes, rather than the one who has a diploma, or is remarkable for her proficiency in languages, mathematics, and music. That kind or amount of education which creates a distate for the labors and cares of a household, or a taste for dress above what fathers or husbands can afford or which even absorbs all her own earnings, or which leads to a round of risiting in rich and genteel families, is in nine cases out of ten misplaced, and a source of endless chagrin, and disappoint-

A Churchman Squelched.

An anecdote is related of a pleasant faced manufacturer in one of our West ern cities, the point of which was seen by a clerica! brother: Mr. C -- having accumulated a goodly supply of "the neighboring village, where the people were engaged in the laudable effort of supplying themselves with church accommodation. Mr. C —, proverbially generous, promptly and largely aided both his own and other denominations, until his pocketbook and stock of patience became pretty well depleted. Yet the Episcopal brethren, in spite of repeated refusals, persisted in their appeals for aid. Finally the excellent rector, subscription paper in hand, ventured to attack the citadel of C _____'s benevolence and greenbacks. After assigning reasons why he could not contribute

C - added: "You know, my good sir, you don' recognize our people (the Methodists) as a regular church, and won't admit even my beloved pastor into your pulpit. It would be hardly the thing, therefore, to offer you a subscription.

"Ah!" said the rector, apologetically, but, my dear sir, we could not; it's against the canon of our church." "Well, then," replied C ----, with his accustomed bluntness, "find your own ammunition to fire your canon with!" At which the rector retired, and the layman was lelighted at the thought that he had effected a saving of powder in one direction, at least.
